DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Regarding Claim 1, it is unclear what is meant by a "signal spreading function".

Does this imply broadbanding including circuitry in order to perform such a function? It is unclear what is meant by a "receipt function". Does this imply reception or something other?

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hassemer (6064341) in view of Harada (5969694).

Regarding Claim 1, Hassemer shows an antenna for a portable television phone (where such an antenna receives video/audio signals and makes no distinction between them), comprising a rod antenna 246 in Fig. 7, of multiple-stages with a helical antenna 244, a conductive lower section 243 connected to the rod

246,247 and electrically connects with a meal portion o the helical antenna 244 at contact 1606. It is unclear whether this contact is defined as a bushing. Thus, Harada is cited as evidence of obviousness and teaches a bushing type connection of antenna elements at 50 in Fig. 7. It would have been obvious to the skilled artisan to employ such an electrical connection with the rod and helix. As to Claims 2 and 4, a three-stage rod is shown in Harada to be obvious to the skilled artisan with inserted ends as claimed. As to Claim 3, the insulated housing for the helical antenna is shown by Hassemer where the rod portion 1608 projects therein.

5. Claim 5 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hassemer (6064341) in view of Harada (5969694) as applied to claim 1 above, and further in view of Yamauchi et al. (04-006905, of record).

Ni/Ti wire is used in the rod antenna of Yamauchi et al. It would have been obvious to employ such a composition for the rod in the primary reference devices.

6. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Michael C. Wimer whose telephone number is (571) 272-1833. The examiner can normally be reached on M-F.
